

Our major media groups appear to filter the news that we the public receive. A more diverse presentation would help to keep the public better informed on happenings in the world rather than the straight Party line that seems to have been presented recently by the major media outlets.